Men's team bowls over women

The four-person men's team from White Rock Lawn Bowling Club exacted a measure of revenge against some of their female counterparts Tuesday, at the annual Peace Arch News Lawn Bowling tournament. A year after White Rock's women's team won the head-to-head battle of the sexes, the men's group - Alex Abraham, Norm Broadway, Phyl Hermanson and Peter McInychuk - played through pouring rain to defeat the club's top women's team, made up of Norah Murphy, Mary McConnell, Pat Caldwell and Lyn Deuling. Peace Arch News' publisher Linda Klitch tossed the ceremonial first bowl of the tournament on Tuesday morning, before play began.

Bromley selected for top lacrosse squad

A handful of local lacrosse players were selected last week to hone their skills this summer with one of the province's top developmental squads. The Burnaby Mountain Selects program - for elite players in four age divisions - includes Earl Marriott Secondary student Spencer Bromley, who will play for the Select's sophomore elite team (1995-born players). Other Surrey players selected include Ben Davies, Niklas Eriksen and Cloverdale's Patrick Shoemay. Two players from just across the border, Bellingham natives Matt Bennett and Nicholas Estrada, were also picked.

The Burnaby Mountain Selects program, founded in 2006 by Simon Fraser University men's lacrosse coaches Jeff Cathrea and Brent Hoskins, culls the top youth players from across B.C., Idaho and Washington, and will play high-level tournaments this summer in Colorado, Massachusetts and Maryland.
