

UP lacrosse tournament showcases players from across the nation

Annapolis, Md. - It was the perfect day for fall lacrosse in the Annapolis area as the Ultimate Performance Fall Lacrosse tournament brought together players from every part of the country.

While getting to each of the event's five venues in one afternoon was near impossible, ESPN RISE did manage to catch up with several of the teams at Annapolis (Annapolis, Md.) and Severna Park (Severna Park, Md.).

The following is our take on some of the players that caught our eye at the event.
(Key: athlete, grad. Yr., high school (city, state), club team, position)

Quinton Bradley, Sr., Matthew McNair (Richmond, BC), Burnaby Mountain Select, Defense

Bradley has great footwork and was aggressive with his attacker. The British Columbia native had a some good checks and managed to strip the ball loose a few times.

Cameron Buglione, Sr., Vestal (Vestal, N.Y.), Fighting 4 Orange, Defense

Buglione is committed to Cornell and showcased good checks and excellent footwork. He was always running side by side with his attacker.

Michael Buysse, Jr., Malvern Prep (Malvern, Pa.), Next Level 1, Midfield

The junior passes the eye test with good size and during the game Buysse showed that he has good speed and stick handling skills.

Chris Carr, Jr., South River (Edgewater, Md.), Rockfish, Midfield

Carr showcased a series of great moves in the game against Team Tennessee. Carr is a heads-up offensive player who could be a breakout star during his junior season for Arundel.

Jon Carr, Jr., South River (Edgewater, Md.), Rockfish, Attack

Jon and Chris are twins, with Jon playing attack and showcasing a nose for the net. Quick and explosive on the offensive end, Carr was able to sneak around defenders without the ball and put himself in position to score. Jon is five minutes older than Chris.

Wilkins Dismuke, Soph., Rock Canyon (Littleton, Colo.), 3D Select White, Attack

The youngest player on our list, Dismuke showed good moves close to the net. His finish seemed a bit raw, but with his speed and ability to move around and between opponents, he's bound to be a player to be reckoned with as he matures.

Brendan Durkin, Sr., Good Counsel (Olney, Md.), Good Counsel, Attack

Durkin had good shots on goal. He has good footwork and moves well with the ball.

Justin Guity, Jr., Garfield (Seattle, Wash.), Seattle Starz, Midfield

Guity could be the dark horse in this group. He played in limited action, in the first half of the game against Fighting for White, but was very fluid running the field. Scored 11 goals last year in what looks to have been his first season. Could be a player to watch as his game develops.

Ed Lally, Sr., Sewickley (Sewickley, Pa.), Sewickley, Attack

Lally is a bulldozer of an attackman. Smaller defenders could not move him and Lally started some offensive plays like a power forward backing down a defender in basketball.

Pat McEnerney, Sr., Good Counsel (Olney, Md.), Good Counsel, Goalie

McEnerney has a good grasp on leading his defense and had some good saves in his game against Team Wisconsin.
